

Greetings to all you meeting and event planners, Justin Locke here.

Below, you will find a complete set of “session evaluation forms” from a presentation I gave here in Boston.

Lots of speakers will tell you how good they are, but I decided to let my audience tell you instead.

This program was given to approximately 250 members of the Retail Print Music Dealer’s Association. 59 of the attendees filled out these forms, and this is the entire stack of those forms, verbatim, as they were handed to me by the planners the next day. These evaluations have not been edited or reordered in any way. Note some of the best comments are in the middle and towards the end.

The goal of this particular program was to be an entertaining keynote (and wake everyone up at 8:00 am on a Saturday morning), not to provide any particular “educational elements,” so it was surprising how many people circled “yes” under “relevant to your needs.”

I would love to have a chance to get this kind of response from your group as well. My “Principles of Applied Stupidity” (a discussion of “people skills” learned in the orchestral world) are adaptable to, and appropriate for, virtually any professional organization. And of course my “Real Men Don’t Rehearse” Boston Pops stories are lots of fun, especially for any gathering in Boston.

You can see videos and more at www.justinlocke.com.

Please do feel free to contact me at justinlocke@juno.com, and for reference, please contact the RPMDA event planner/ association manager Madeleine Crouch, at <http://www.madcrouch.com>
